

A young painter artist
By: Derek Chapman

Do you want to learn about a Young Chinese artist? Yes, great! It was a very wise choice to choose to learn about this very cool artistic painter!

Who is this painter? Wang Yani.

She was born in 1975 in Gongcheng, a town in Southern China. I think she got interested in painting because her father was a painter. She got into painting by the age of four. She tried helping her dad by painting on his personal paintings. I remember reading that she told her dad that she wanted to paint. It's a good thing that her father was able to supply her with plenty of art supplies. I know that her paintings got put in art galleries around the world at age 13. What is special about her art is that she started at a very young age. She uses the style called Xieyi Hua. It is a freer style. By the time she was ten she was famous!

My favorite painting of hers is the Lijiang River. This is a picture of the Lijiang River done by Wang Yani at age 13.

Is there a book about Wang Yani?

Matter of fact, there is a book about this remarkable Chinese painter. It is called A Young Painter Wang Yani.

What are the Chinese painting styles? There is the Gonghi Hua and the Xieyi Hua. What is her form of painting? She says “When you pick up a brush don’t ask for any help. Because the most wonderful thing about painting is being left with your imagination. She also says that I do not paint to get praise from others, but to play a endless joy,” I’m like her pictures because she paints for endless joy and her pictures.
